

INTERCONNECTED

Hold on wait a sec, somethings on my track music that be wandering, vinyl without a crack Wake up every morning, had a nice sleep on my stack catching all these dubs like im Michael Jordan, going back to back to back, you know its fact one would call me enigma, i be existing like im some kind of an artifact See me on a TV what a nice way for time to flew encounter religious program, like "May Jesus be with you" You know that is true, i have a faith in my man in the moments when there's no one, he is the only one that can understand so why cant others be like him, are they banned of bonding i aint no foundling, you can express yourself, you ain't no bothering So take it easy, you cannot seize me predictable like game of parcheesi listenin to me is like game of influencer and influencee But my cool ain't affected only you can be infected in the moments when you understand that were interconnected

Now we diving deeper into human psyche a man can switch up when goin through days like he's back in the 90s Lifting all these curse, my throat hurts, catch the blast of a hype verse my water-gun burst, leave in a hearse, I did worse With my 20 20 vision i have sniper-like precision there ain't no division between us people, only different position like we back in new York times, many primes, but sometimes nerds online would call me out using AI for making these rhymes My guy, you know you're like me you breathe, hurt, cry, and see what i see so we sort of a' same, i might be tad bit insane but that ain't much of a difference consider what else here remain That a legacy, most definitely, and stuff that we share like dreams, fears, you get the point, no time to compare we all have that layer, of what makes a human equal so get snacks, stick around, if you expect from us a sequel